LIFE LONG LEARNING PROJECT

Funded through a service agreement with North Lincolnshire Council

NIACE Adult Learners Week Award 2007

Adult Learners' Week is an annual week-long national campaign delivered each year which seeks to engage and inspire people to pursue adult learning - either to catch up on skills not learnt at school, to learn for or at work, or to learn for fun.

It is the UK's largest learning campaign, and promotes education and training for adults. It is a collaborative venture between education and training providers, broadcasters, and national and local government.

NIACE is the largest organisation working to promote the interests of learners and potential learners in England and Wales and, since 1992.

The Week has the backing of the Department for Education and Skills and the European Social Fund and is also supported nationally and locally by a raft of prestigious organisations as diverse as Prudential, Ofcom, the Office of Communications, Jobcentre Plus, the Co-op, Royal Mail, Ufi/learndirect, broadcasters - including the BBC, Channel 4 and ITV - and City and Guilds.

In May 2007 our Life Long Learning Project was fortunate enough to receive NIACE's (National Institute for Adults Continuing Education) Adult Learners Week Award 2007" for assisting over 180 Carers (18 years old and over) to access a learning opportunity.

For such a small local charity we feel that this is a huge achievement. Well done to all those who have made the project a huge success.

The project is developing all the time and our aim for the next year is to extend the criteria to include Carers aged 16-18 who require help and support.
